Response to the famine in South Sudan. Almost five million people are facing severe food insecurity in South Sudan, according to the UN World Food Programme.

Forced to leave their farms and livestock, the conflict has left people unable to cultivate their land and grow food to feed their families. Responding through Canadian Foodgrains Bank, PWS&D will be providing nutrition support to those affected by famine conditions in South Sudan.

With support from the Government of Canada through Canadian Foodgrains Bank, donations to this project are matched 4:1. That means that for every $1 you contribute, $5 of programming can take place. For those who would like to support this cause, please mark your offering envelope PWSD South Sudan.
